ELEMENTARY

'87 DEDICATION:

"My dad was born in Fish's Eddy, New York. My mom was born in Honesdale, PA. They were married in 1955 in Honesdale. They went to Tacoa Falls Bible Institute in Georgia, where my dad studied music. Then they went to St. Paul Bible College in St. Paul, Minnesota. This is where my dad got his music degree. Then they went to Seattle, Washington, where they worked at King's Garden. My dad worked in the music department and on the radio station. After this, they moved to Rochester, NY. My dad worked with the church choir there. They went to Prairie Bible Institute in 1967. They worked there for 15 years. My dad was the head of the entire music department and my mom was the secretary to the Dean of Men. They moved to Cleveland in 1982."

-Leah Rausch

MR. RAUSCH AND "WIFEY"

"o magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt His name together."

When we think of special people, hard working for the Lord, and dedicated to what they do, we think of Mr. and Mrs. Rausch. The Lord has blessed our school and church in a great way. He has brought Mr. and Mrs. Rausch to us. The Lord has given Mr. and Mrs. Rausch so many talents that they use for Him. They let the Lord work through them to make our school a better one for His honor and glory.

We thank the Lord for the musical talent He has given to Mr. Rausch. With Mr. Rausch, the Lord has made our music department the best it has ever been. Mr. Rausch never quits. He is always giving music lessons and trying to get other kids to want to learn how to play an instrument. He always tells us to use our talents for the Lord - even after we graduate. He says that the Lord gave us the talent to use for Him, and if we don't, the Lord can take it away. Not only is Mr. Rausch a great musician, but also a great man. Whenever you see him, he always has a smile on his face and a song in his heart. He has a way of lifting your spirits.

We thank the Lord also for Mrs. Rausch. The Lord has given her many talents too, one of which is putting up with and keeping up with Mr. Rausch. She picks him up after school, late, when he is finished with his lessons; then she has to go home and finish supper. She has all the responsibilities of a wife and a mother plus the time consuming job as the Home Ec teacher at HCS. As the Home Ec teacher, she goes grocery shopping for cooking class and fabric shopping for sewing class. She puts up with late homework assignments and problems of all sorts. Mrs. Rausch is a friend to each girl at HCS. She is always there for any girl if they need to talk about a problem or if they just want to share something happy. She is a friend and a comfort to everyone.

We appreciate Mr. and Mrs. Rausch so much. They are always busy for the Lord, and they are such an example to us. That is why we Seniors dedicate this 1986-87 yearbook to Mr. and Mrs. Rausch.

ERIC!! ERIC!! HE'S OUR MAN!!

Who in our school has lettered in all three sports for four years? Who can play on our team and also be an Eagles player look-a-like? Who put his all into every sport he was involved in since coming to Heritage in second grade? Who is the only person ever to be voted MVP in all three sports? And still be humble, amiable, and cooperative? Why, it could be no one else but . . . senior ERIC CORLEY!!! And how do the coaches at our school recognize such athletic prowess that is coupled with a sweet Christian spirit? By awarding him the treasurerd ATHLETE OF THE YEAR trophy! Congratulations, Eric, and thank you for all the hard work that you put in here at HCS!

Promerific

The elegant Panorama Restaurant was the site of the Prom dinner. The couples met at the Cleveland Baptist Church, where awards were presented to the seniors. Many embarrassing stories were also shared. At the restaurant, most of the couples enjoyed a delicious steak dinner.

Kathy Helmick, who received an award for promptness, was late for Cedar Point the next day. She and her date had to drive to Cedar Point. Sam Pankratz drove everyone crazy, but the couples still had a terrific time.

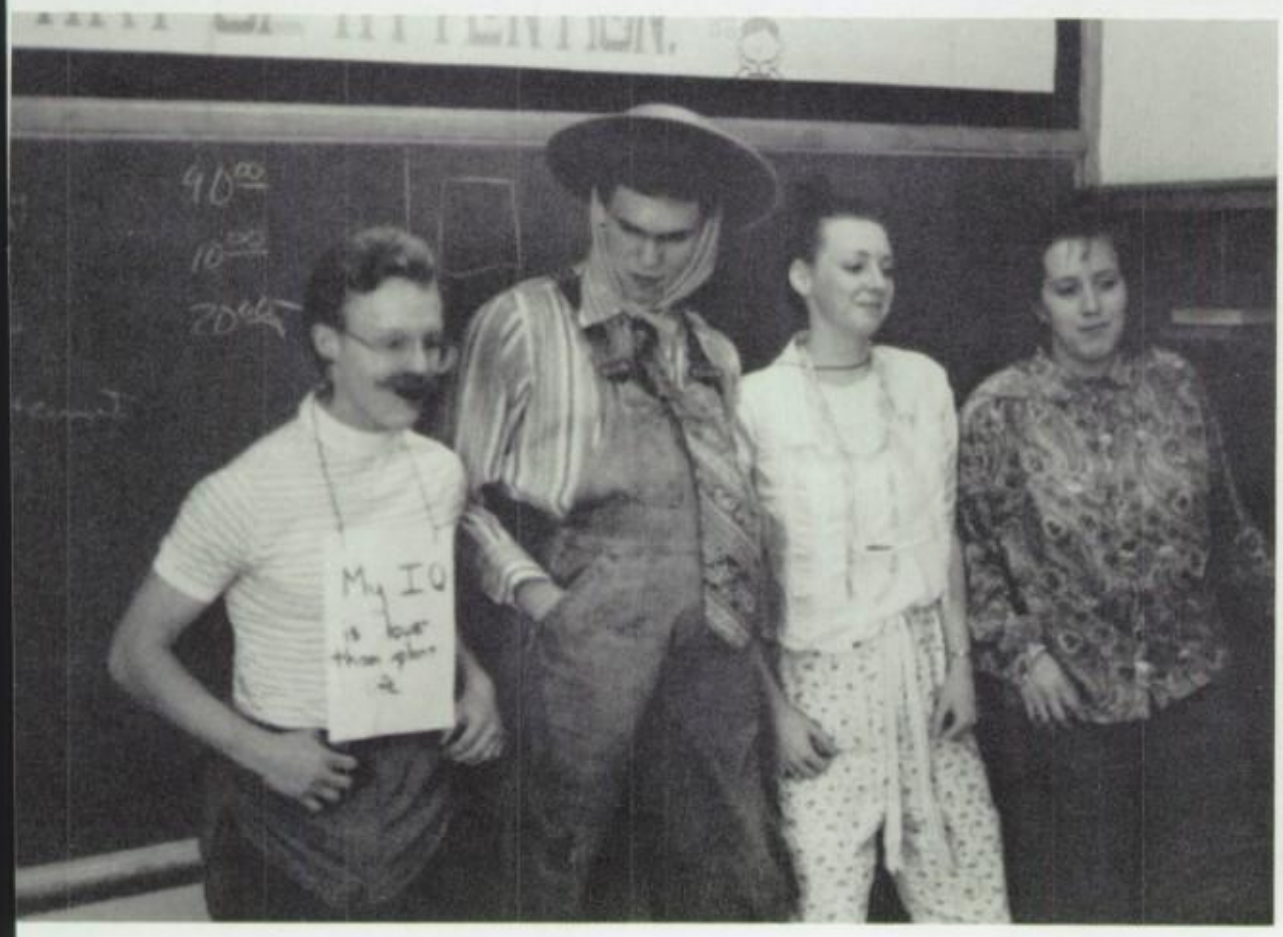
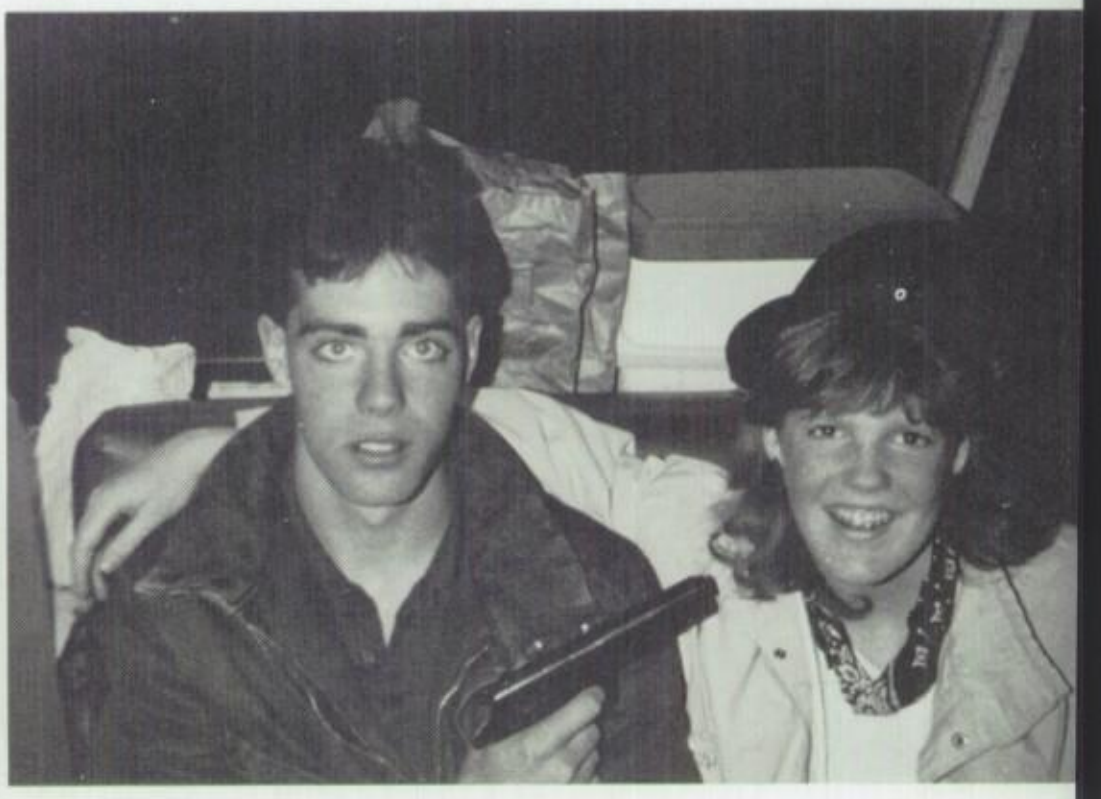
SENIOR SLAVE DAY:

The seniors' auction day left at least one person broke. Jason Scott was the highest bidder for Sam Pankratz - sixty-five dollars!!! Jason borrowed money from everyone to pay off his debt. Scott Jefferson bought his share of girl slaves, and there was not doubt about Aaron Mallory buying Kathy Helmick. Gaius Khawaja was found giving free English lessons in the hallway. Although the seniors were humiliated by their masters, they earned $515.00 toward their senior trip!

I Finally Got Ya!

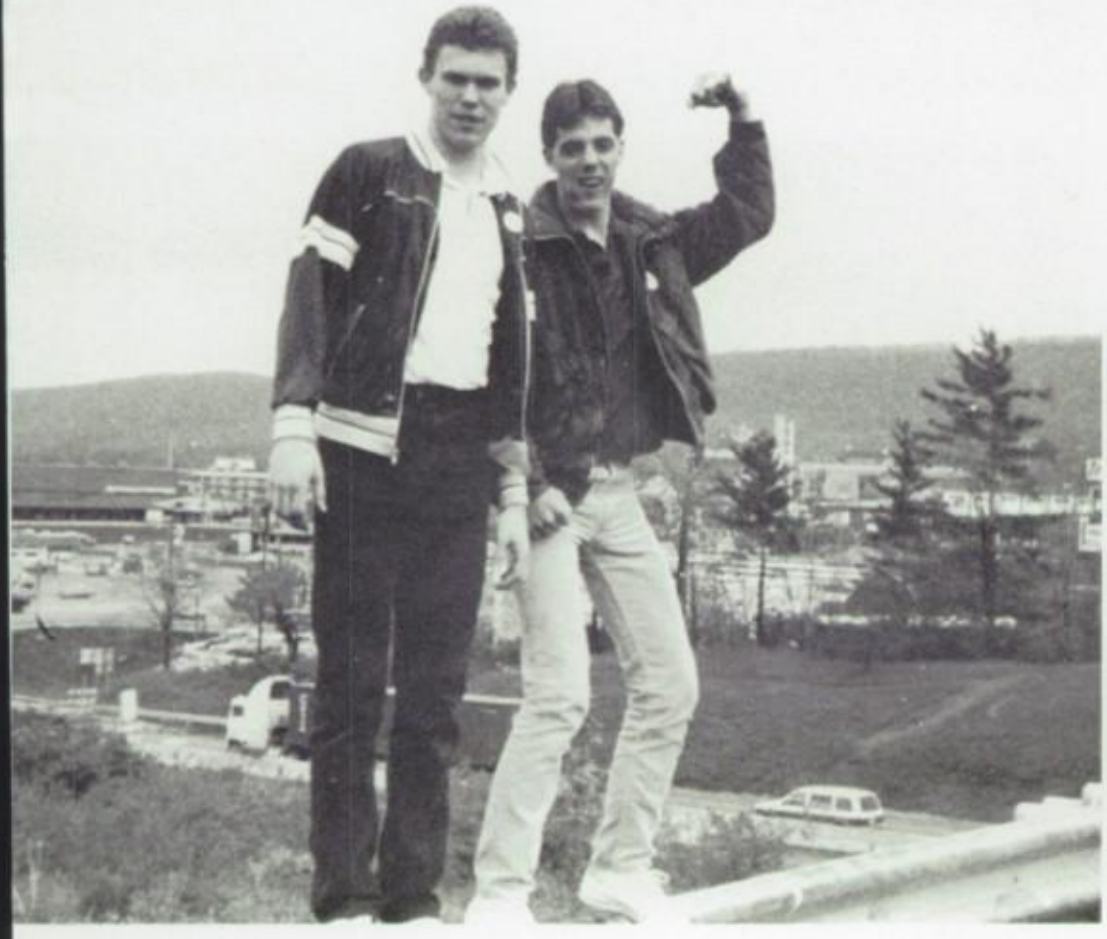


This Is The Craziest Class



So said Pastor Thompson after the Seniors spent their traditional day with him. The class went wild when they met Ricky La Roach half way through their weinerschnitzel. All except Kelly Bradley. She apparently went ahead and ate so much that Jeni and Jackie had to put on their disguises so the waitress wouldn't know they were with Kelly. Pastor must not have minded this unique sense of humor too much. This was the first year he went with the Seniors on their Washington trip. Rachelle, Debbie and Vickie may look very dignified sitting in front of the White House, and Dari may look very sophisticated standing by the Potomac, but looks can be deceiving! The Senior antics in the capital city included death defying walks on a guard rail; hilarious meetings with Willy Wart, David Letterman and Mr. Silly (alias Brian Hall?); gangster follies on the bus; monopolizing the elevator inside the Washington Monument; and playing volleyball at the Independent Baptist Church in Clinton, Maryland, until the wee hours of the morning. Is Rachelle doing her ET imitation at Macs? And what is this transformation in our dear Pastor? Our principal, too?? And they wonder why the Seniors of '87 were so crazy!!!

We've Ever Had At H.C.S."



WE DID IT . . . .

Gales of laughter blended with the sounds of "Pomp and Circumstance" as Brian Hall and the other seniors walked down the aisle. No, the audience was not laughing at the seniors, but at the pictures that were being flashed on a screen during the processional. Each senior had hunted up his school picture from his first year at Heritage, and it was the freckles, the braces, the frizzy hair and the plump faces of little children that tickled the audience. Each childhood picture was followed by a picture of a senior, grown up and about to go out and face the world. The giggles turned to tears. It was a nice touch, and the seniors had worked together to make the idea possible. On the day of graduation, they spent six hours together blowing up enough balloons to make the arch in the fellowship hall. Then, in the evening, they shared the nervousness of waiting to walk down that long aisle in front of a packed-out auditorium, waiting to give speeches, waiting to see who won the special awards, walking up to receive the coveted diplomas, and then walking down the stairs (without tripping, hopefully) and up the aisle to give a rose to Mom, an appreciation book to Dad, and a hug and kiss to both. Their teachers were not left out of their expression of love and gratitude. The class had decided that they wanted to give a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Hine. This was her eleventh year of teaching at HCS. The seniors had had her for third and for fifth grade. They had been through a lot together on the way to Graduation, 1987.

HOW CAN WE TALK TO THE DEAF EARS?

The Class of '87 included a very special student. At graduation, Mark Wojnarowski thanked Pastor Thompson for allowing him to come to our school. When Mark asked to come, Pastor hired Mr. Mickey to interpret for Mark and to teach the other students sign language so they could communicate with him. Mark was well liked by the other students, and he even managed to play soccer despite his handicap. We're glad he came to Heritage. It was while attending our school that he was saved, and now he's on his way to Tennessee Temple to prepare his life to be a preacher to the deaf. The greatest thrill our school knows is sending laborers into the Lord's harvest fields. We love you, Mark!

Shelly Manning and Missie Brenenstuhl helped start the HCS Patriot Press this year, while Scott Jefferson put long hours into filming the games for the Varsity team. Jenny Farley, a faithful fan, made sure she got her name on the Pep Club banner, and Carol Bryda, not wanting to be left out in the cold, joined the sweatshirt fad that hit the school. Kurt Eckerman always had a "Peace, brother" to add to any conversation, and Debbie Pankratz — Debbie? Debbie?? — is ruining the copy for this page because she's trying to get out of the act, despite Tina Nale's efforts to put her in. How that girl hates to have her picture taken! We got her holding the microphone for Bible Challenge, though, and she was busily pondering the answer with Carol Bryda and Mike Hollen as Leah Rausch produced the answer.

From sweet April Barnes to athletic Mike Farley to newcomer Kara Bradley, the sophomore class was loaded with school spirit! They waited anxiously at the Pep Rally to hear that they had won the candy-filled "spirit stick" for having the most people dressed in red, white, and blue at the Mansfield game. Even studious Steve Damron got into the act to show his school spirit. Si, amigo? Could Becky Hann and the guys have gotten all of their athletic energy by eating goodies from the wonderful world of HCS snacks?

The first year of junior high is often a time of awkward adjustments, but by eighth grade, these kids were ready to shed their cocoons! Sharon Aichele, like many of her classmates, seemed comfortable letting her real personality shine through. Jason Roberts wasn't the least bit inhibited about wearing the latest in designer tee-shirts, complete with a detailed diagram of the human digestive system. Crystal Beaver and Marne Loomis enjoyed sharing their talent in Chapel. Kristin Floyd and James Brenenstuhl loved watching John Luecht come out of his shell in "The Glove and the Lion." Crystal Beaver was only too happy to display the art of eating strip cheese to Hollie Mickey. And we'll let you decide for yourself just what it is Kim is doing at Chi-Chi's. We're just happy she was part of our Missionary Prayer Band.

wouldn't believe the changes!

Changing classrooms each period, being low man on the totem pole, and trying to remember homework assignments from six or seven teachers were some of the changes to which Billy Roberson and the other seventh graders had to adjust. But some of the changes were fun. Holly Drake, Meredith Crummel, and Debbie Bailey were glad to finally be able to purchase the nutritious snacks and beverages available in our fine cafeteria. Lori Poling enjoyed the switch from playing elementary P.E. games to learning coordination skills in junior high. Paul Myers and Mark Jefferson, two of this year's "Book Busters," were anxious to keep pace with the eighth graders in the reading race for English class. Of course, Dan Krysiak thought they were all "weasels."

THIRTEEN YEARS AND MORE

Thirteen years ago, Pastor Thompson became burdened with the need for a Christian school, and HCS became a reality. Julie Hoffman, Lori Mickey, and Dari Gajewski started Kindergarten that year and are now the first three students to ever spend all thirteen of their school years at Heritage. Along the way, they were joined by other students as the Class of '87 changed and grew. The class shared many experiences together, but no experience on earth could be greater than accepting Jesus as your Savior. No knowledge could be more precious than knowing that when you die, you'll be going to Heaven. Because of the blood Jesus shed on Calvary, this class can be together forever!

"For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord." TOGETHER AGAIN AT HCS

Almost every student, at one time or another, wishes he could change places with those in authority over him. "If I could just be the teacher, the youth director, the pastor . . .," they muse. Apparently several of our faculty and staff members also had those thoughts when they walked the halls of Heritage as students because they now sit behind the desk as a faculty or staff member. Their dreams have become a reality. Mr. Kevin Folger - Class of '75 - was a member of Heritage's first graduating class. He is now the Associate Pastor at Cleveland Baptist Church. Mr. Dan Wolvin - Class of '78 - serves as the Senior High Youth Director and Bus Director at the church. His wife, Mrs. Denise (Harris) Wolvin - Class of '78 - substitute teaches at the school. Mrs. Vicky (Folger) Jaggard - also a member of the Class of '78 (must have been a great year) - is now our English teacher. Mrs. Ruth (Thompson) Stone - Class of '82 - is a member of our faculty and teaches Business. Lastly, Miss Michelle Alderman - Class of '83 - is our school librarian. Welcome back!

SENIORS

WITHOUT A DOUBT!

The most coveted award that is given out at graduation every year is the Discipleship Award. A vote is taken. We are asked which senior has the greatest Christian character and testimony. This year, Debbie Cleveland won, unanimously. The teachers, the church staff, the principal, the pastor, and the students all put Debbie first on their list of five choices. She was chosen especially for her attitude towards other people. She never looked down on others, and she was friendly towards everyone. She works on a bus route and she's a soul-winner. She studied her Bible diligently and became the Individual Bible Challenge winner. She made the whole school proud of her when she won the Bible Teaching trophy at CSO. In the fall, she's going away to Hyles-Anderson College to prepare her life to serve the Lord. She really is a sweet Christian young lady, and so's her sister, Peggy, who won the Discipleship Award three years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, (as well as little brother, Jimmy) must be very proud. They have a right to be!

DOWN ON THE FARMS
WITH THE SIXTH GRADE

For Halloween, Kristin Cook and her classmates got all "foo-fooed up" in their hillbilly best and took off to the Jones' farm for a Hobo Party. They didn't find any alligators in that pond, but it looks like they did catch a fish. It must have been too small to feed them, though, because Jeff Poling, William White, David Popa, and all the girls ate hot dogs and beans - served in the best Hobo china, of course. On another day, these country folks visited the Tropical Lovers Pet Store, where Todd Clemens found a feline friend. Mrs. Jones didn't forget to feed them on that day, either, and Jimmy Headrick enjoyed their stop at good ol' McDonalds. This class did work during the year, but even their shadowbox book reports reflected their enjoyment of animals and the great outdoors.

THEY WERE WILD AND WOOLLY - BUT PREDICTABLE

With their tomahawks and rifles, the fifth graders may have looked fierce at their Pilgrims' Feast, but Mrs. Hine wasn't afraid - she knew them too well. Whenever Richard Chambers raised his hand this year, Mrs. Hine, as well as Missy Johnson, Jason Jadallah and Jeremy Johnson, knew he was going to ask how many times he was behind in writing his spelling words. (Was the last count 72?) Jason Routzon always dreaded those Friday desk inspections, while Stephen Moose and Jason Sheffey preferred playing GI Joe to anything - even eating. It looks like they weren't the only ones. Aaron Barnes, Eric Mallory, and Jarrod Boyd brought their pistols and submachine guns to school for recess. Boys will be boys! Was Gloria Ortiz wondering which one she should like next? Mrs. Hine loved them all!

CEASE-FIRE!!

Even though there were times that Mrs. Martone had to indeed call a cease-fire, the class made it through with barely a scratch. These pilgrims and Indians seem to have made a peace treaty. Meal time was always a good time for "burying the hatchet." Is that why Mrs. Martone was always bringing in donuts? Let's hope that Teddy Payne and Richard Willham are amicably discussing who should announce the temperature on WHCS. Despite the odds, the fourth grade survived another year!

READIN' 'RITIN' AND RECESS

The third graders loved those play times! "Cool" Sarah Beaver and her friends probably never got tired of the swings, but let's hope that Scott Joss or Seth Bodenmiller finally got tired of arm wrestling. Maybe Rebecca Ortiz or William Henderson could tell us who won. It looks like they enjoyed watching the match as much as Joy Hamilton and Seth enjoyed the food and presents at their class parties. Melinda Wilson had a good time drilling math facts, as long as she got to play "Around the World." John Stover and Gary Noble listened intently and asked questions - in Art class! When our photographer came around to take pictures, he couldn't get John to be serious! Who could in such a frolicsome class?

SECOND GRADE SCHOLARS.

They lined up after recess just the way that Mrs. Adkins asked them to. When she advised Lexi Vlahopoulos and Rachel Bohannon on their seatwork, even Tracey Malone listened and learned! Kenneth Herman looks confident about his assignment, but Peter Folger isn't so sure. Eventually, though, the entire Giants reading group understood and followed instructions. Such obedience rejoices a teacher's heart, and so does helpfulness (usually)! Mrs. Adkins started filing the students' papers away so they could take them home once a week, but Joe Miller and Kristy Wardrope wanted to do it for her. The first graders seemed to love school as much as the seniors did! No matter what they did, they had a great time doing it. Sarah Rolen and Andrew Bruckman loved getting the milk tray. READY - SET - GO!

Getting off to a good start, the kindergarten students soon learned about Mrs. Chaplin's five famous rules. Matthew Sheffey shows us how he can have his "hands folded" and "eyes watching." Debbie Dietz shows us her innocent look as she keeps her "mouth quiet." We said "mouth quiet," Nathan! The Friendly Forest is a great place to read. Jennifer Current practices while Sandra Cain makes sure she keeps her "ears listening." It wasn't too hard for Melanie Hosey, Chastity Douglas, and Jennifer Current to obey the last rule, "feet still," when nap time came around. Though the rules were tough, the kids were eager to learn and adapted well to their first year in school.

Kindergarten is a time for smiles . . .
Mary Delgado and Tiana Collins smile at playtime (they're probably remembering how they scared Senora Johnson at milk-buying time) . . .

And Carl Schwind smiles at gift-getting time.

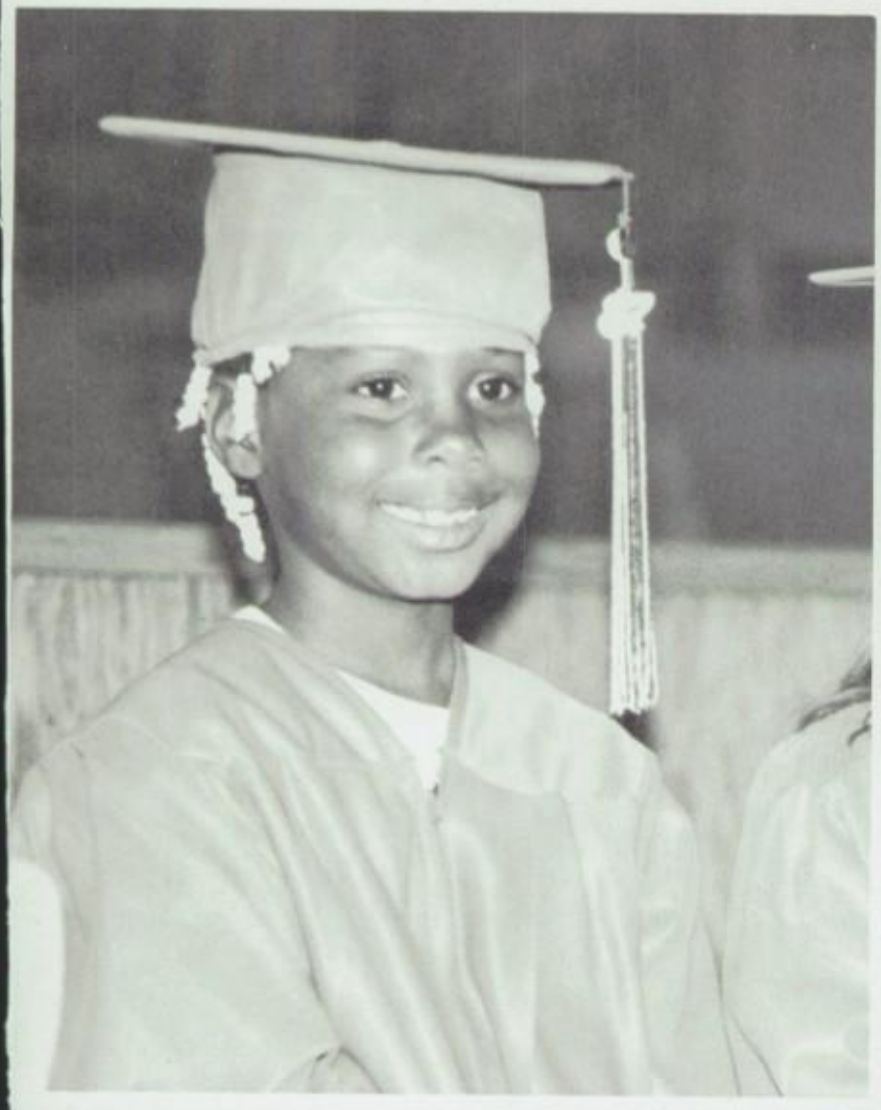
GRADUATION



THE STARS ARE HERE

This year, the kindergarten graduation was a smashing success. Daniel Hamilton, from Mrs. Chaplin's class, and Angela Kotlenz, from Mrs. Schwender's class, were the proud valedictorians. Daniel Port looks like he can't decide which hand to use as Lee Bodenmiller leads them in the pledges. Aisha Howell puts on her prettiest smile before she accepts her diploma, while her class recites Bible verses for each letter of the alphabet, and Mrs. Chaplin's class tells us about the creation.

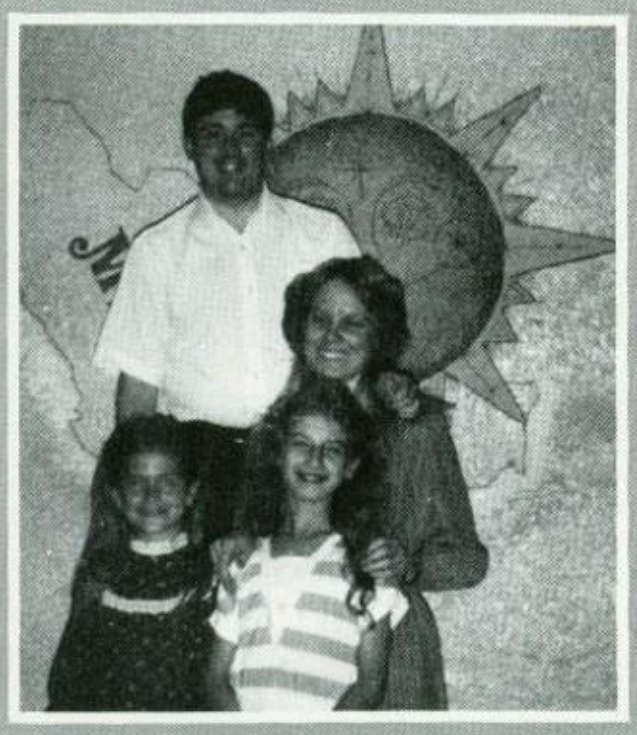
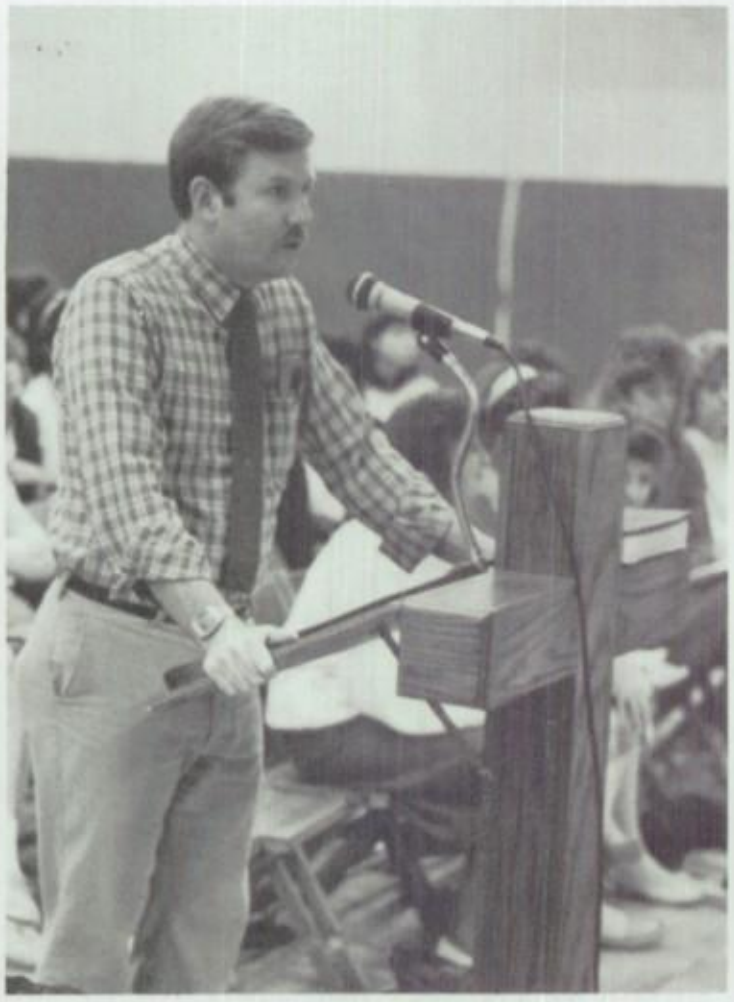
LOOK WHAT OUR GOD BROUGHT TOGETHER

Several years ago, a case worker stopped on the streets of Lakewood and wept because she was going to have to take the baby that Connie and Mike Malone were trying to adopt. Some time later, a whole church grieved when news came from Springfield, Missouri, that Connie had lost a child. But our God "doth not afflict willingly nor grieve the children of men," and "though He cause grief, yet will He have compassion according to the multitude of His mercies." On the day Connie came home from the hospital, another case worker called to tell the heartbroken couple about two little sisters who were sure that they wanted to be adopted by Connie and Mike. They even wanted to go to their new daddy's college graduation. Today, Stacy and Tracey belong to Connie and Mike. What a family they make! And what a delight it has been for us here at HCS to share in their joy. Surely, great things our God hath done!



BIBLE CHALLENGE



"Next week chapters are I Timothy 1, 2, and 3, so study and let's win!" So go the announcements from the homeroom teachers as they motivate their teams to get ready for the fast-paced, highly-structured Bible Challenge competition that takes place every Friday here at HCS. As Mr. Cook rapidly fires the questions, Mr. Stone fouls up the scores. The students "show themselves approved" by being able to buzz in and give the answers within fifteen seconds. Although some teams were skunked, the competition was still fierce between the classes this year. The sophomores won the class championship, but the competition was not over. Carol Bryda and Debbie Cleveland battled it out for the individual championship, with Debbie coming out on top, followed by Carol, Karen Nolen, Lisa Klemenc, Mike Hollen, Steve Damron, Leah Rausch, and Sam Pankratz. Cash awards, trophies, and Thompson Chain Reference Bibles were presented to the top eight competitors. Debbie Cleveland was also awarded a $1,000 scholarship from Hyles Anderson College for her efforts. Bible Challenge is a highlight of our school week because the Bible is our foundation. How we need to study it!

"Give of your best to

As soon as second semester begins, thoughts around the school turn to CSO. Students sign up in the office and begin long hours of practice and hard work. Lisa Klemenc, Michelle Solinsky, and Tina Nale even performed their speeches in chapel one day. It was good practice, but lots of pressure! The pressure mounts as the competition draws near, especially when you have to write out copies of music for the judges at the last minute. Fortunately, Mrs. Stone was there to help Lori Klemenc get it done in time for the girls' quartet to get a I rating. When students were not performing, they were usually running around from room to room providing moral support for their friends, or checking the rating charts with bated breath. For some strange reason, though, Michelle Solinsky spent four hours sitting on a step this year. What did she do for four hours? Only the camera knows for sure! Debbie Pankratz felt like a real fool when the camera caught her in her court jester costume, but she earned a I rating on her poem, "The Fool's Prayer." A lot of students earned I ratings, and HCS brought home many trophies, including the two most coveted: Preaching, won by Paul Wolvin, and Bible Teaching, won by Debbie Cleveland. We don't know if Renee Redden would want to "live the two days over," but CSO is well worthwhile. It develops and refines skills that can be given to the Master!

VARSITY

This year's version of the Patriot soccer squad was quite a pleasant surprise. The blend of youth and senior leadership was perfect. We suffered some close losses to First Baptist of Medina and Temple Christian of Mansfield; but we continually improved and peaked in our performance during the two post-season tournaments.

In the Ohio Christian Athletic Conference tournament, the Patriots overwhelmed the Medina Knights to take a first place trophy. The following week at Cedarville College in the Christian Schools of Ohio state tournament: teamwork, ball control, pin-point passing, and a miserly defense brought victories over Temple Christian of Lima and Temple Christian of Mansfield.

VARSITY

After the graduation of four of last year's five starters, the Heritage Patriots had a better than expected year. Even when the varsity team lost, they didn't let it spoil their day. Much of this year's offense and defense was produced by Senior Eric Corley. He can touch the rim without jumping. No wonder he can slam dunk so well. There's Matt Mickey with the ball, again. Where are Jason and Brian? Steve Damron is certainly on the job. For "not being very good," he scored a lot of points for the varsity team. The only thing the guys want to know is, "Where is all the water, Mr. Johnson?"

but they did win some.

When the softball awards were given out, a very special award was given to Mike Hollen. This award was not for his athletic ability, but for his ability to keep the team laughing with such sayings as "Telephone," "I hate when that happens," "Shabadeda," "I'll smack you bald headed," "I thought so," and "Look at the head on that thing." It was Sanford who hit Mike's homeruns for him and the team often traveled in a Sanford mobile. The Shabadeda Award will long be cherished by Mike, we're sure. (Is it in one of Mr. Brown's trophy cases?) The team also had a very serious coach this year. Of course, Mr. Stone's players treated him with great respect. Was the team's best player that wild and crazy redhead? And was this copy written by a coach or a desperate yearbook staff?

Although we had only five varsity cheerleaders, they managed to look just as good this year as they have in years past. Just look at the picture of the terrific mount they formed! Of course, they seem to be falling off the other mount. Maybe they were trying to be Bruce Lee cheerleaders?? Looking good takes a lot of practice. At the Awards Banquet, Captain Rachelle Crummel and Co-Captain Lisa Harris thanked their advisor, Mrs. Regentin, for all of the time and help she devoted to the squad. Leah Rausch was chosen as the Most Improved Cheerleader, and Rachelle won the Cheerleader of the Year award. Did Mike Hollen teach them how to cheer?

This year our J.V. team showed us they really know how to play basketball. They won eleven games and only lost four. Don't our guys look impressive when they're getting ready to shoot a basket? Mark looks like he can't believe the ball went into the basket. Aaron just smiles as he adds two points to the score. Howard is getting ready to show that he can shoot a foul shot. Everyone in the crowd is screaming, "We want Loucka!" Mr. Wolvin puts in Don Klemenc. I'm sure none of the guys on the team will ever forget the referee from Sippo Valley. We should all congratulate the J.V. team on a terrific season!

WHAT ELSE CAN WE SAY?

Every Monday from 3-5 p.m., the Pep Club brought their markers, spray paint, and stencils to Mrs. Chaplin's room and made signs to help promote school spirit. Their artwork was a smashing success, especially at home games and tournament pep rallies. The girls also sold snacks at the games, and some of them did double duty as statisticians. What would the guys do without those girls to record all their baskets, goals, and home runs?

Intramurals this year was an exciting time! There was much competition between the teams. There was also much to learn from our terrific coaches: Mr. Hoffman, Steve Hardin, Doug Suplita, Mr. Stone, Mr. Jaggard, Rich Hollen, and Ron Atkins. Soccer was open to fourth, fifth, and sixth graders. Basketball was open to sixth, seventh, and eighth graders. Grades five through twelve played baseball. The All-Star basketball team played some other schools. The guys had a good workout on their intramural teams. They also had lots of fun. A special thanks goes to our alumni who returned to HCS to be coaches.

"Take me out to the ball game . . . "

The varsity softball team and the faculty battled it out on the softball field this year. Was Paul Wolvin bribed into making sure the varsity lost the game? I wonder how much Mr. Witzke paid him. Mr. Stone really put his whole self into the game. Just look at his face when he hit the ball! Surely he managed to get someone out on second base. First base and home plate were covered by Mr. Cook and Mr. Witzke. Our star player, Mr. Brown, got ready to hit a home run, and Mr. Folger seemed to think he was golfing rather than playing ball. Our fearless leader, Pastor Thompson, became our fearless pitcher. Mr. Wolvin tried to show everyone that even though he's small, he can really hit a softball! Mr. Hoffman looks amazed that he made it to second base, and Mr. Cook rejoiced as he stepped on home plate. The faculty won the first game, but the varsity came back to win the second game. Both teams won our thanks for a really fun show.

HOW CAN WE TALK TO THE DEAF EARS?

The Class of '87 included a very special student. At graduation, Mark Wojnarowski thanked Pastor Thompson for allowing him to come to our school. When Mark asked to come, Pastor hired Mr. Mickey to interpret for Mark and to teach the other students sign language so they could communicate with him. Mark was well liked by the other students, and he even managed to play soccer despite his handicap. We're glad he came to Heritage. It was while attending our school that he was saved, and now he's on his way to Tennessee Temple to prepare his life to be a preacher to the deaf. The greatest thrill our school knows is sending laborers into the Lord's harvest fields. We love you, Mark!

CHAPEL

Meat to eat that

All schools have assemblies, but when we here at HCS gather in the gymnasium, it's usually to hear Pastor Thompson or a guest preacher feed our souls from God's Word. Some of the great men who exhorted, inspired, and challenged us this year were Greg Patton; Jerry Novak, missionary to Kenya; Ray Lovett, pastor of Olmsted Falls Baptist Church; and Gene Piazza, pastor of Bedford Baptist Church. Mr. Rausch sees to it that our chapel services include good music. "Teenager, Are You Lonely?," "Nothing is Impossible," and "God's Will, My Will" were some of the songs that echoed through the halls on chapel days this year. Special music was provided by Harry Strachan, Jr. from Simcoe, Ontario, and music evangelist Clyde Burns. We also enjoyed our own home-grown talent, such as the woodwind quartet. The services were not lacking humor, either. During our Spiritual Emphasis Week, Dr. Larry Bartlett was presented with an alarm clock. Call Detroit if you want to know why. If you want to know how to live for the Lord and have abundant life, stop by HCS and feast on a real steak-and-baked-potato meal from the Word of God.

MISSIONARY PRAYER BAND

upon my heart . . .

Does God hear when a small group of students gather in room 206 during the first part of their lunch hour on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays and pray for the salvation of two young men in far away Australia and a Mr. Ruiz in distant Peru? "The fervent, effectual prayer of a righteous man availeth much." Surely, He does! And praying together makes for sweet fellowship. So does going out to eat with missionaries. Mrs. Debbie McLennan (going to Scotland) joined us for shrimp chip crunches at Wah Fu's. Jason Brenenstuhl and Don Whitecar led those shenanigans and then prayed together at the church after gathering requests from the missionary letters in the hallways. When the gang went to Chi Chi's for pollo magnifico and enchiladas, the Gabbards (going to New Zealand) were our guests. (Paul Myers recommended the broiled chicken - not fried ice cream, Miss Goff. And is Debbie Bailey really eating a cheeseburger at a Mexican restaurant?) Po Folks was where the high school prayer band girls took Rose Garcia (Togo, Africa) for fried okra. During missions week, the prayer band asked the entire Junior High to dress up in costumes to welcome the missionaries. (I wonder if Crystal Beaver's Indian pony is drowning . . .) It was a fun day but also a day to remind us that souls in Spain, Mexico, and Italy need our prayers. One day we'll get to meet Keith and Bill in Heaven, and then we'll tell Mrs. Ruiz that we prayed for her husband, too.

PILGRIM FEAST

Mrs. Chaplin was ready and Chastity Douglas was set to enjoy the traditional Pilgrim Feast. Mrs. Schwender and Angela Kotlenz had plenty of smiles to make the day an enjoyable one. The first grade feast was frolicsome for Ken Beck and for Efraim Ortiz, who looks quite authentic in his outfit. The second grade scholars followed their teacher's instructions on how to dress up for the day. Peter Folger put on his Indian best to lead the class in the fun. Readin', ritin', and recess were not important to Melinda Wilson as she prepared to partake of her feast. A cease-fire was called in fourth grade so Indian Lisa Piazza could get a cool drink. Hopefully, those wild fifth graders didn't cut her off at the pass. After a good time at school, the sixth graders went down to the nursing home and shared their Thanksgiving with others.

the Mayflower land?

Students arrived at school just like they always do, but this was no ordinary day. They would load up the buses and go on a field trip all day. Each class picked their own place to go. The Freshmen started their day at Stan Hywett Hall and ended it at the Coliseum, where they got to work out on the Cavs' equipment. The Sophomores visited the Ohio Canal, Amish Country, and Middlefield's Cheese Factory. I wonder if they got to taste any of the cheese? Ferguson's Glass Shop was the Juniors' first visit. Then they headed to the Downtown Arcade, where they did some shopping. Mr. Cook took his group of Seniors to the Great Lakes Historical Society. Where else would a history teacher take his class? Everyone had a great time, and would love to do this again next year. (Hint, Hint)

SPEECH

The main purpose of speech class is ____. Answer: to make you feel comfortable speaking in front of a group of people. The speech students saw this question more than once during the course of the semester and many of them saw this purpose fulfilled in their lives as they did crazy and serious speeches such as a skit, a demonstration speech, a promotion speech, and a devotion. At the beginning of the semester each student came to class with a little bit of excitement and a whole lot of apprehension. However, before the semester was even half complete, the students were showing their true selves. They saw performances from such varied talent as the S.O.W. (Seniors of Wrestling), David and Goliath, and the vacuum cleaner salesman (alias Mr. Stone). Mrs. Jaggard enjoyed the demonstration speeches the most as they usually involved sampling food! How do you spell speech? The speech students spell it F-U-N!

YEARBOOK

Yes, these are the ingenious minds who put together the 1987 Patriot Yearbook. Of course, Mr. Campbell, our amazingly patient Josten's representative, had to first teach us geniuses about lay-outs, cropping pencils, copy keys, and deadlines. (What was that last word?) Lori, our editor, manages a smile as she tries to convince a man that he did indeed order two full page ads. (He never heard of HCS?) Remember when Becky yelled out the car window, "Hey, Mr. Witzke, we missed the exit on the turnpike . . ." Such brilliance needs to be fed. For Debbie Pankratz (who's hiding, of course), that means horseradish sauce on her fries. Debbie Cleveland gladly volunteered to be the staff dietician. Even the greatest minds need help sometimes! We would like to extend a special thanks to Mr. Regentin, our photographer, who always manages to capture unforgettable moments, and to all those volunteers who helped us to finally get the book done. (We still have 34 more pages to do? Somebody watch for Guido!) Even though the "problems" stacked up, we had an awesome time and produced an awesome yearbook. We hope you think so, too.

KRISTIN, OUR STAR

This year, CSO sponsored an Elementary Spelling Competition. The state was divided into five districts. The Northeastern District meet was held here at HCS. A first and second place winner were chosen from Grades Four to Six for each district. These competitors went on to state. Our school sent Kristin Cook, Jarrod Boyd, and Deidre Delgado. Mr. Cook drove them to Heritage Baptist Academy in Canal-Winchester and proudly brought back Kristin's trophy for being the State Spelling Bee Champ. Congratulations Kristin! We're proud of you.

We really need to draft some yearbook staff members for next year, so we left this page for you. Here's your chance to try your hand at writing copy. What do you remember most about this year? (Don't forget to fit your copy with a copy key, and if you use a headline, you'll need to check the typography chart.) If your creativity lets you down, or if Mrs. Jaggards's essay assignments have depleted your supply, just use this page for autographs!

JUST FOR MRS. STONE:

1-How will I survive peanut butter and jelly without the snack bar this summer? 2-I need my RV! 3-I wonder if I can wear these for another school year? 4-Shell Shock! It's too quiet around here! 5-So Donna Thompson finally got Miss Goff to clean out her locker, aye? 6-Can parking lots sue for desertion? 7-How do I like doing permanent records?

AND SO WE CLOSE

JOSTENS
